Kristin Miller is a proven leader in the social services and housing fields. Using her thirty years of management and systems knowledge, she has built effective relationships that bring large, complex initiatives to fruition. She has worked in government, non-profit, and as an individual consultant.

Ms. Miller is currently the Executive Director of Homeless Services United (HSU), a membership organization supporting nonprofits that provide shelter and homeless services in New York City.

Prior to this, she served at the Corporation for Supportive Housing (CSH) as Director of the Metro Team, utilizing project and team management expertise to lead strategic planning and implementation in creating solutions for vulnerable people living in NY, NJ, and PA.

She is well-versed in multiple service systems including homelessness, housing finance, justice, mental health, substance abuse, child welfare, and aging.

Ms. Miller is adept at using her multifaceted experience to develop and implement creative and effective solutions through program design, philanthropy, financial modeling, data analysis, training, and technical assistance.

She is serving on the advisory boards for two NIH research initiatives and is serving on the Board of Directors for Brooklyn Community Services.

She has a Masters Degree in Social Work from Hunter College, NYC, and a dual Bachelors Degree in Social Work and English from Augsburg University in Minneapolis.
