

GRETTEL JIMÉNEZ-SINGER
Director
National Women's Shelter Network
New York, New York

National Women's Shelter Network, LLC

Grettel Jiménez-Singer has been the director of the National Women's Shelter Network since the initiative first emerged in 2021. Before the NWSN, she worked as the Editor-in-Chief of the first online platform for MTV Latin America, Viacom, as Chief Creative Officer of Tropix Media and Entertainment, as Editor-in-Chief of Cubaness Journal, and as a volunteer, treasurer, and board member at Lotus House Women's Shelter.

A writer at heart, she has also appeared in numerous publications (Paper Magazine, Vogue, and Huffington Post) and anthologies ("Cines de Cuba," "Mi juguete preferido," "Miami Unplugged"), where she deconstructs the topics of womanhood, Cubanism, and migration. Grettel dives deeper into these concepts in her books ("Mujerongas," "Tempestades solares," "La Traviata" and "La bella durmiente en Central Park").